
Groundbreaking program to be launched to help equip those supporting individuals with autism

November 18, 9:30 a.m.

What: The Ohio Center for Autism and Low Incidence (OCALI), in partnership with the Ohio Department of Developmental Disabilities (DODD) and Ohio Department of Education, will launch a first-of-its-kind program to help families and providers develop a range of skills and techniques to guide their work and support of individuals on the autism spectrum.

The program will be FREE TO ALL OHIOANS and exported across the globe to impact the lives of millions.

Interviews will be available with OCALI and DODD leaders, as well as parents and service providers who will benefit from the new program.

Where: Greater Columbus Convention Center at OCALICON

OCALICON is a conference offering high-quality sessions and networking opportunities focused on meeting the needs of individuals with autism spectrum disorders and low-incidence disabilities. In 2014, OCALICON drew 1,500+ educators, intervention specialists, administrators, SLPs, psychologists, policy-makers, parents/family members, self-advocates, special education directors, and many others from 40+ states, Canada, and the United Kingdom.

To Attend: Please RSVP to Angela Krile at angela@krilecommunications.com, cell 740-974-3948 by 9 a.m. November 18 to ensure you have access to the event.